CofC Sailing Team Kicks off Spring Season

The Cougars’ spring sailing season got underway on January 23 under sunny skies with air temperature in the 60’s. Meanwhile, much of New England remained below freezing, giving the CofC sailing team a big jump on our northern peers.

The team dusted off their dry suits and took to the chilly waters of the Cooper River for practice. They looked sharp despite the long winter break, and we even welcomed a few new faces. Crew extraordinaire Britney Haas, ‘09 returned to the team after spending the fall in Spain; skipper Bryan Rigby, ‘10 transferred from the Naval Academy; and Sarah Wolcott, ‘11 joined the squad as a crew. Our spring roster can be found on page 10.

We have an action-packed racing schedule this spring, starting with North Points #1 at Eckerd on February 9-10. With over 20 confirmed district and intersectional regattas on the schedule, it’s going to be a busy spring. We are also hosting spring break practices with Boston College, Dartmouth and Stanford, which will give us a little extra competition. Our spring schedule can be found on page 9.

The co-ed team is currently ranked #10 and the women’s team is ranked #2, so we expect to be in the hunt all season. Go Cougars!

Sailing Program Launches The Cougar Current

Over the past 40 years, the College of Charleston sailing program has become one of the most successful programs in the history of college sailing. The team has won 13 national championships and produced more than 60 All-Americans, 3 College Sailors of the Year, 1 Quantum Female Sailor of the Year, and 1 Sportsman of the Year.

As our base of alumni, team parents and community supporters continues to grow, so does our need to provide our supporters with news on the team’s progress. So it is with great pride that we launch The Cougar Current, our official sailing program newsletter.

We expect to publish a fall and a spring issue each year to keep you up to date on the team’s progress. Subscription information can be updated by emailing manarda@cofc.edu. We hope you enjoy The Cougar Current.
Welcome to the first edition of The Cougar Current. In each edition we will use The Coaches Corner to provide you with our thoughts on the team, the season, and anything else that’s on our mind. Since this is the first edition and most of us are relatively new to the sailing program here, we’d like to take a moment to introduce ourselves to you.

Alice Manard, our Director of Sailing, is the newest member of our coaching squad. A two-time Women’s All-American at Stanford and six-time member of the US Sailing Team in the 470 class, Alice brings a wealth of sailing experience to the program. Prior to joining the program, she was a management consultant in San Francisco and New York, and her business experience will help guide the program as it continues to grow. Alice will oversee our fundraising efforts and the administration of the sailing program.

Head Coach Ward Cromwell has been with the Cougars since 2004, starting as the Assistant Coach and working his way up the ranks. Under Ward’s leadership the team has won 5 national titles in the past 3 seasons and produced 12 All-Americans, one Quantum Women’s Sailor of the Year, and one Sportsman of the Year. His extraordinary coaching success comes as no surprise given Ward’s sailing resume. Ward was an Honorable Mention All-American at ODU, winner of the 1999 ICSA Team Race Nationals, and has been on the US Sailing Team three times. In the off season he keeps his skills sharp racing his A-Class catamaran.

Assistant Coach Nick Ewenson has been with us since the fall of 2006. A top collegiate sailor at St. Mary’s, Nick led the Seahawks to a win at the 2004 ICSA Team Race Nationals. Nick and his team recently finished third at the 2007 US Sailing Team Racing Championship for the Hinman Trophy proving that he hasn’t lost his edge. Nick brings us a wealth of dinghy sailing and team racing expertise and is a tremendous teacher and mentor for the team.

And keeping the whole operation at the J. Stewart Walker Sailing Complex running is Dockmaster Colin Bentley. For 18 years, Colin has maintained our fleets and facilities, helped operate the Sailing Association, served as the primary sailing instructor for the Physical Education Department, and endured an epic battle with the otters. Colin also serves as an assistant coach for the team.

We spent the winter getting the fleet back in top shape and are all looking forward to a great spring season with the squad. Please come cheer on the team if you’re in Charleston or if we’re racing in your area.

Edgar T. Cato recently made a generous donation of $1 million to the College of Charleston Sailing Program. Mr. Cato is a renowned and exemplary sailor with years of success on the international racing circuit aboard his yachts, all of which are named Hissar. In honor of this gift, the program is now named the College of Charleston / Hissar Sailing Program. Mr. Cato is a long time supporter of the College of Charleston Sailing Program and recognizes the value of sailing to the College and the Charleston Community.

Through this gift, the Cato Foundation has also challenged the sailing program and its supporters to match the $1 million gift. Our goal this year is to raise $500,000 in donations and pledges, which will generously be matched by the Foundation, bringing the total Hissar endowment to $2 million.

Funds generated from the endowment will be directed to fleet replacement and other major program needs. Your participation in this unprecedented, one-time opportunity will help ensure the future of one of the most successful collegiate and community sailing programs in the country.

The Class Challenge

The Hissar Class Challenge is a competition between current and former College of Charleston Sailing Team classes to raise the largest amount in donations and pledges for the Hissar Endowed Fund by June 2008. The winning class will be recognized on a permanent plaque at the sailing center and all members of that class will receive a thank-you gift. Donations made by parents or friends of sailing team members will count toward that sailor’s class. Be sure to note the class your donation should be credited to on your donation.

The deadline for the Class Challenge has been extended to June

Co-ed Team Fall Recap

Coming into the fall season, the bar was set pretty high. The Cougars had won the ICSA Dinghy National Championship for the past two years and won the Sloop National Championship in the fall of 2006. But with two of the top co-ed skippers - Russ O’Reily, ’07 and Brendan Healy, ’07 - graduating last spring, many had counted the Cougars out for this year. Early in the season, the co-ed team was ranked 20th in the country.

So the team did what champions do. They came to practice focused and ready to work hard every day. They attended workouts with our team’s trainer to improve their physical conditioning. And they followed Coach Ward’s sound advice to “focus on the process, not on the results”.

And sure enough, the results came with it. The co-ed team competed in 15 events over 11 weekends in the fall, with their results improving throughout the season.

Overall it was a great season and our young team proved they are extremely talented with a lot of potential. By the end of the season the co-ed team had moved up to #10 in the rankings, reflecting the great results they posted.

Fall season highlights included:

- 9th at the Harry Anderson regatta at Yale (Manton Paine, Emily Simon, Allie Blecher, and Christina Murray)
- 10th at the Nevins Trophy at Kings Point (Chris Lash, Katie Weaver, Nick Martin, Megan Riddle, and Cole Allsopp)
- 2nd at the SAISA Singlehanded Championship and 8th at the ICSA Singlehanded Nationals (Chris Lash)
- 5th at the Hobart Intersectional (Steve Barbano, Coreyanna Moore, Andrew Zuber, and Cristy Jamison)
- 10th at Navy Fall (Chris Lash, Katie Weaver, Manton Paine, Emily Simon, Christina Murray, Cole Allsopp, and Andrew Zuber)
- 7th at the Hoyt Trophy at Brown (Chris Lash, Katie Weaver, Manton Paine, and Emily Simon)
- 10th at the Atlantic Coast Championship at Eckerd (Chris Lash, Katie Weaver, Nick Martin, Megan Riddle, and Steve Barbano)
- 3rd at the Rose Bowl at USC (Nick Martin, Erin Markee, Allie Blecher, Christina Murray, and Tinja Anderson-Mitterling)
Women’s Team Fall Recap

While the co-ed team started the fall in a ‘rebuilding’ phase, the women’s team was back in full force. Last year the women had an outstanding season. They finished second at last year’s ICSA Women’s National Championship, and Shannon Heausler, ‘10 won the Women’s Singlehanded Nationals followed by Allie Blecher, ‘10 in second place.

The entire squad is back this year, including All-Americans Andrea Savage, ‘09; Allie Blecher, ‘10; Shannon Heausler, ‘10; and Dani Neri, ‘08.

In the fall season the women certainly lived up to expectations despite losing Shannon Heausler due to injury. After entering the season ranked #2, the women dropped to #5 for the early part of the season. But strong performances at all of the major women’s events couldn’t be overlooked and they finished the season ranked #2 behind Yale.

Going into the spring we expect the women to be in the hunt once again. Shannon is back and fully recovered; and the rest of the squad is eager to pick up where they left off. There are several strong women’s teams in the country right now and it will be a tough fight, but the Cougar women’s team is ready to take on the challenge.

Fall season highlights for the women included:
- 3rd at the Mrs. Hurst at Dartmouth (Andrea Savage, Dani Neri, Shannon Heausler, and Bethany Herbert)
- 3rd, 4th and 11th at the ODU Radial Invite (Shannon Heausler, Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, and Kathryn Metscher, respectively)
- 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 5th at the SAISA Women’s Singlehanded Championship and 1st at the SAISA Women’s Dinghy Championship (Allie Blecher, Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, Kathryn Metscher, and Andrea Savage)
- 3rd at Navy Women’s Fall (Allie Blecher, Christina Murray, Andrea Savage, Dani Neri, Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, and Hanna Watt)
- 2nd at the Yale Women’s Intersectional (Andrea Savage, Dani Neri, Allie Blecher, and Bethany Herbert)
- 7th at the Victorian Urn Regatta (Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, Erin Markee, Kathryn Metscher, and Martha Fisher)
- 2nd at the Women’s Atlantic Coast Championship at Yale (Allie Blecher, Christina Murray, Andrea Savage, Dani Neri, and Tinja Anderson-Mitterling)
- 5th and 10th at the ICSA Women’s Singlehanded National Championship (Allie Blecher and Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, respectively)

Singlehanded National Championships

by Allie Blecher

Last November, three Cougars competed in the ICSA Single-handed National Championships in Seattle, WA. The Cougars occupied three of the four spots to represent SAISA in this event: one for the men’s fleet, Chris Lash, ‘08, and two for the women’s fleet, Allie Blecher, ‘10 and Tinja Anderson-Mitterling, ‘09.

The Cougars temporarily parted with the comfortable temperatures of Charleston and headed to Seattle where they sailed on the Shilshole Bay. With temperatures in the high 50’s, the team managed to stay as warm and as dry as possible. “The water temperature did not make it any easier to keep your head in the game” according to Anderson-Mitterling who is originally from southern California.

Light winds on the first day prevented any races. After some unsuccessful drifting, the laser sailors returned to land. On the second and third days, winds ranged from 12 to 15 knots. Endurance proved to be the toughest obstacle. The radial sailors hung on by their toes as they managed to keep their boats flat through the wind driven chop. Getting out of the current became a major advantage that the Cougars were relatively comfortable with thanks to the Cooper River’s strong tides. Lash remarked, “You were never really out of the game. It was easy to bounce back in only one leg.”

After three days of close competition, the Cougars finished strong. Bleacher finished 5th while Anderson-Mitterling finished 10th of 17 in the Women’s Singlehanded National Championship. Lash finished a strong 8th in the 18 boat Men’s Singlehanded Championship.

Thanks to the Anderson-Mitterlings for treating the team to a fabulous dinner after sailing on Sunday evening!
CofC Sailing Team Building Houses, Building Hope

On February 4th the sailing team gave their boots and lifejackets a rest and picked up hammers to help build a house with Charleston Habitat for Humanity. Their efforts were part of the College of Charleston’s “One Pride, One House” Blitz Build. The project raised $60,000 and coordinated 2,000 volunteers to construct the home in North Charleston over a two week period.

When we arrived on site at noon, the single-story raised house was already well underway with the framing and flooring mostly done. The Habitat staff split us into smaller groups and put us to work. For most of the day the team worked to secure plywood sheets (or OSBs) to the exterior of the house. Our expertise in lifting bulky fiberglass objects also came in handy at one point when we were asked to lift two bathtubs over the framing in order to swap them from one bathroom to the other. And some of the team got in an extra workout loading what Shannon Heausler estimated to be 2,500 lbs of lumber onto a flatbed trailer.

The team also contributed to the project’s fundraising. Christina Murray, ‘10 led the team’s effort to raise $1200 for Habitat. Thanks to Christina for eagerly volunteering for the job and sharing her enthusiasm for Habitat with the rest of the team.

Once the house is completed, Habitat will transfer ownership to the Nelson family and issue them a 20 year interest-free mortgage for the $60,000 cost of the house. Under Habitat’s “sweat equity” policy, the Nelson family must help work on the house during the construction phase. Angie Nelson was on site for the build and her excitement over the prospect of finally owning her own home was obvious. “People keep asking me to express how I feel about this and I just can’t put it into words. I’m just so grateful and overwhelmed with joy.”

The team’s great work in building and fundraising for the project was very much appreciated by the Nelson family and Charleston Habitat for Humanity. Great job, team!

Johnny Lovell, ‘91 to Represent USA in 2008 Olympics in Beijing, China

Anyone who thought College of Charleston sailing team alum Johnny Lovell would be satisfied with four collegiate All-American titles, eleven US National Championship wins in the Tornado class, three trips to the Olympics, and a silver medal from the 2004 Olympics in Athens sorely underestimated his competitiveness. In October, Lovell and his crew, Charlie Ogletree, earned the right to represent the United States in the Tornado class at the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing, China by winning the US Olympic Trials in San Diego, CA.

Their win at the trials was a hard-fought battle, to put it mildly. As the veterans of the class with countless national and international titles to their credit, Lovell and Ogletree entered as the favorites at the trials. They were supposed to be a sure-thing. But evidently no one told that to Robbie Daniel and Hunter Stunzi, ‘07. For four days the two teams remained in a dead heat, both ending every day with a set of 1-2 finishes. Day five brought the first clear leader and the first sign that, for the first time since 1992, someone other than Lovell/Ogletree may be representing the US in the multi-hull class at the Olympics: Daniel/Stunzi posted a 1-1 to Lovell/Ogletree’s 3-4. After trading 1-2 finishes again on day six, Lovell and Ogletree were in a do-or-die situation. Trailing by three points, they had to beat Daniel/Stunzi in all four of the remaining races in order to win. Given the scores posted by the two teams throughout the event, that would be no easy feat.

The final four races were as close as any others. But in the end, Lovell and Ogletree were able to use a combination of their exceptional sailing skills and ability to perform under pressure to come out ahead by one point. Of the hard-earned victory, Lovell and Ogletree said, “Robbie and Hunter deserve congratulations. They pushed us hard and showed us we need to work a little on our medium wind boat speed. The other thing we learned is that it’s good to be old and long in the tooth.”

In addition to his rigorous sailing schedule, Lovell is busy as a CPA and father at home in New Orleans, LA. A Business and Finance major at C of C, Lovell is a member of the firm Lovell & Company and is married to Katy Pilley Lovell, ’89, an internationally ranked match racer and a former member of the US Sailing Team. They are the proud parents of 3 year old son (and prospective Cougar, class of 2026), Nick.

Congratulations to Johnny and Charlie on their fourth appearance at the Olympic Games. We’ll be cheering for them and tracking the campaign through their website, www.t-squaredracing.com. Go Cougars!
